An ensemble made from Metro papers will be featured in Snow White And The Seven Designers, in which Snow White's wicked stepmother's design crimes come in revenge for Ms White being 'fairest of all'.

The Metro costume is the work of Carolina Rieckhof and Sandra Arroniz Lacunza, and will be worn by top interior designer Nina Campbell – whose character finds herself naked after a naughty pixie's spell.

But, on the Tube ride home to fairyland, she fashions an outfit from the trusty papers she finds. 'The panto is for such a wonderful cause. I'm delighted that I'll be a Metro Dame this year,' she told us.

The show, which runs for six nights at the Garrick theatre, will raise money for Dementia UK.
